Wormald Homes New Luxe Elevator Homes at Quarry Springs

Potomac residents looking to start the next chapter of their lives in a vibrant resort-style community and who want to remain close to Avenel and the Congressional Country Club area need look no further than the elegant elevator townhomes under construction at Quarry Springs on River Road.

The 44 lock-and-go residences are the latest endeavor of luxury homebuilder Wormald Homes. Founded in Bob Wormald's Potomac basement in 1964, Wormald has grown to become one of the region's largest builders, creating both planned communities as well as constructing individual homes in established neighborhoods. Now run by Bob's sons, Ken, Ed, and Robert, the company has one goal: to create places where people truly love to live.

The new Wormald Homes under construction at Quarry Springs are designed to meet that standard. While inspired by classic European city architecture and the finest neighborhoods in Washington, D.C. and New York, the Wormalds are always careful to innovate. Their floor plans are modern and uniquely suited for contemporary life. Each townhome offers a rooftop terrace four-seasons retreat that features retractable screens and blinds, and cascading glass doors, from the ceiling so it can be used as an open-air covered porch or a screened in porch. In winter months, it can be enclosed completely by glass. This makes the rooftop perfect for entertaining or taking in the sunset year-round.

Each home also includes its own private elevator that accesses all floors, and the rooftop as well. The residences feature a modern, Euro-designed gourmet kitchen with a walk-in pantry, high-end finishes, and a light-filled owner's bath off the grand owner's suite.

Unlike other new home options in the area with limited access to the outdoors, Quarry Springs has a full complement of amenities, including a gorgeous 10,000 square foot clubhouse, swimming pool, walking trails, and signature parks including a waterfall rock garden park with bridges, a trellis overlook, and a waterside fire pit. The centrally located Quarry Springs fitness center comes fully equipped with a yoga studio, steam rooms, saunas, and men's and women's locker rooms.

Quarry Springs' tough-to-beat location provides quick access on and off 495 to D.C., Tyson's Corner, Bethesda, airports and other favorite destinations.

Families who have chosen to move into Wormald homes are consistently thrilled with their decision. The Wormalds hear all the time, "We wish we had moved sooner and didn't realize how great and freeing life would be with less maintenance and more time to do the things we love to do -- like be with family and travel the world."

The Wormald brothers are carrying on the work of their father, Bob Wormald, a sixth generation Marylander. Bob's philosophy was that if he built a quality home with a great design, people would buy the homes and the company would grow through referrals. His philosophy has proven true, and today Wormald has grown into a regional builder.

Bob and his wife Myra, still living in Potomac, have watched with pride as their sons continue Bob's work and grow the family business. Wormald Homes recently received international recognition for their work at Crown in Gaithersburg, Md., proving that Bob's vision resonates.

Wormald comprises of a team of industry experts, each with decades of experience including engineers, architects, construction managers, finance professionals, marketers, sales professionals, and accountants who together make up the nearly 100-person Wormald team.

With an in-house architectural design studio (Wormald Design Studio), every new home undergoes a rigorous, purposeful and iterative design process. The process begins with a careful study of historic architectural design precedents from which to draw inspiration, followed by several rounds perfecting the floor plans and elevations until everyone loves the designs.

The Wormalds always try to introduce something that they haven't seen or isn't available in the market so that their homes truly stand out.

"Our goal as a business is to create places where people truly love to live," Ken says. "We take seriously that we are creating the context where people will live out their lives: entertaining out-of-town guests, hosting a family Thanksgiving dinner, or relaxing with a glass of wine in a favorite get-away retreat after a busy day. The home is where you make your memories and we take that to heart, helping to contribute to people's lives."

Look for "Behind the Walls" tours at Quarry Springs as the homes are built. It's a great way to meet the Wormalds and see for yourself how the love-where-you-live mentality permeates every townhome there.
